

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

27 January 2010 – London, UK

Booking open for Society for Editors and Proofreaders 2010 conference

Come to the SfEP annual conference this year and enjoy two things we know you like: being with other professionals in your field and training with well-practised editors. There's another very good reason – the conference is great value for money.

As always, the conference gives something new to match the changing times. This year, we ask 'Proofreading onscreen – is accuracy compromised?' and inspect the typesetter–copyeditor interface in the electronic age, as well as take new slants on perennial favourites, such as beginners' project management and networking solutions.

Also, you can join members of our local Glasgow group with the free preconference walking tour of Glasgow's highlights.

For information about the programme and to download the booking form, visit the 2010 conference web page. Or email Helen Martin, SfEP office manager, at administrator@sfep.org.uk, or call 020 8785 5617.

By the way, it isn't just with the conference that the SfEP can stimulate and refresh you! Take a look at our 21 top tips to make the most of your freelance copy-editor or proofreader, which we compiled to celebrate SfEP's 21st year. Or take a look at our training schedule if you want a boost to your CPD – every course is designed to take you further than you expect! And you could always join us and take the full range of our membership benefits, including a discount on the conference fee – check out our membership benefits to find out more.
